THE SOURCE EVALUATIONS IN THIS REPORT ARE DEFINITIVE.
THE APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.
(FOR KEY SEE REVERSE)

1. [] a former aviator, maintained on a recheck that the planes which he had observed on 24 August were neither IL-28's nor MiGs. He is sure that he saw twin trails, but the fact that the planes were flying at an altitude of 5,000 meters made a completely accurate observation impossible.
2. The designation "TL" referred to in reference report is the abbreviation for the German word "Turbinenluftstrahltriebwerk", meaning jet. Hence, the designation "TL-type jet" is obviously inaccurate.
